IN REPLY REFER TO:

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY, NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE AUTHORITY:

SUBJECT: N.I.A. 7

1. The AC/AS-2 concurs in the suggested additions to paragraphs 12 and 13 of SWNCC 304/1, but does not concur in the proposed changes in paragraph 9 for the following reasons:

a. The Joint Chiefs of Staff should determine their own internal structure and functioning.

b. Separate and apart from the question of the advisability of assigning CIG personnel to theater and lower echelon staffs, such an arrangement should not be provided for in the Charter of the proposed PWC, nor should the ultimate merit of such an arrangement be determined at the present time. The ad hoc committee which drafted the report under consideration, was of the opinion that it is premature to attempt a complete blue-print of a wartime psychological warfare organization. Consequently, the entire problem should be considered rather than indulging in a piecemeal approach.

2. In connection with the proposed subcommittee whose draft Charter is set forth in Appendix A, General Spaatz has already recommended through military channels that a representative of the Air Forces be included as a member.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE SECRETARY, NATIONAL INTELLIGENCE AUTHORITY:

SUBJECT: Psychological Warfare

1. Reference is made to recommendations by the Director of Central Intelligence with regard to N.I.A. No. 7 (SWNCC 304/1).

2. Paragraph 12, 4th line, page 20. The D/I concurs in the proposed change of adding the word "peacetime" before the word "agency."

3. Paragraph 9, page 8. The D/I concurs with the original draft of this paragraph and non-concurs with the amendment as recommended by the D/CI for the following reasons:

a. It should be the decision of the JCS themselves to decide upon the procedure for transmission of plans and directives to Theater Commanders.

b. Assignment of a representative of the D/CI to the staff of a theater commander should be based upon the desires of the commander. No policy should be established which may tend to tie the hands of a theater commander in any aspect of his operations. If he is to be given the responsibility, he must also be given freedom of decision as to how he will implement directives sent to him.

4. Paragraph 13, page 25, add new paragraph. The D/I non-concurs with the wording of the proposed sub-paragraph j and recommends that it read as follows: Sub-paragraph j (additional)

"Coordination with appropriate SWNCC and JCS agencies of policies concerning deception materials to be used in psychological warfare operations in order to insure harmony of objectives of psychological warfare plans with other plans."

a. The primary objection to the proposed wording is the danger of leaving in the minds of such a high level agency the feeling that they may initiate action on deception and cover matters, i.e., determination and coordination of policies concerning deception materials, etc.

b. Further, psychological warfare and deception activities do not necessarily complement each other since the former plays to a large poorly-informed group of persons; whereas, the latter seeks to influence only one or two exceedingly well-informed and skeptical persons (the enemy commander and his director of intelligence).

c. Any initiation of deception activities by psychological warfare authorities would tend to:

- (1) Stir this skepticism.
- (2) Endanger the security of cover plans and hence that of actual war plans.
- (3) Work to devalue because of its source the continued credence lent to emanations from the deception agency which in peacetime may well be aimed solely at establishing just such a reputation for the truth for future value, and
- (4) It would be extremely difficult to control at this level.
